The next regular term of the district court in and for Pottawattamie county opens on Tuesday next, with Judge Macy on the bench.

The contract for building the brick basement of the Fifth avenue Methodist church is let to J. P. Weaver, and work was begun yesterday.

At the tri-weekly shoot of the Council Bluffs Rifle club, held Friday afternoon, Charles Mattila won the club badge, scoring 74 out of a possible 100.

At a meeting of the local assembly No. 1,300 Knights of Labor it was decided to attend the demonstration and picnic to be held on Labor day, Monday, September 2, in Omaha.

The case of State vs. N. Carruthers, in which the defendant was charged with assaulting J. W. Payne was called for hearing in Justice Schurz's court, but as the prosecuting witness failed to appear the case was dismissed.

All persons who are members of labor organizations are requested to meet at the city building, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to make arrangements for the Labor day celebration in Omaha, Monday, September 2. It is especially urged that members of the various unions and K. of L. assemblies be present.

Lloyd Forgrave was before the police judge yesterday morning charged with disturbing the peace. His case was continued until Monday. Lottie Clark paid $9.00 for a similar offense. She was again arrested later in the day and compelled to deposit the monthly fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $8, required of the women of the town.

A carpenter by the name of Williams, employed by Contractor Chris Rosen, on the new Eisman block, fell from the lower floor to the cellar yesterday morning, and sustained severe though not serious injuries. He was taken to his home on Avenue D, where a physician examined him, but found that his injuries were slight, and he will be at work again in a few days.

The elevated temperature of the past few days makes life less comfortable in the city, but it is a bonanza for Manawa. The bath houses are filled day and night, and the patrons are not confined to residents of Council Bluffs and Omaha. The proprietors of the various places at the lake predict a late fall, as the natural sequence of a late spring, and that the season of trade will continue well along into October.

A spring chicken, a little dog, six women and several entire households of children were the elements of an incident riot on Upper Washington avenue yesterday afternoon. The little dog killed the chicken, and five of the women and about forty of the children were bent upon killing the dog. The other woman and six or eight children protected the dog. There was lots of fun, but no more blood shed. The dog escaped.

The Council Bluffs society reporter in the return of one of the fairest ladies of the city says: "She is looking strong and rugged, like the mountains whose guest she has been." Now her friends are teasing her with all sorts of answers to the conundrum, "When is a young lady like a mountain?" Some say it's when she is pigged, others when she sings "Rock me baby" or when she is dressed in fir. The society reporter has about concluded he will do better as a "hoss" reporter.

The infatuated Philharmonic and Dramatic society is rehearsing "The Dutch Recruit," a military drama, very similar to "The Union Spy" which was produced last year at Donahy's September 34, for the benefit of the German Catholic ladies. The cast includes sixteen people, exclusive of supernumeraries. In the fourth act the Dodge Light Guards will take a conspicuous part, and will have a fancy drill. The cast is a strong one, including many of the best amateur actors to be found in the city. It is hardly probable that one presentation will satisfy the public.

WOLF CHASERS IN DEMAND.

After Their Scapls.

Judging from the demands made upon it by the farmers of the county, the Coursing club is going to "fill a long felt want."

It is rather peculiar what ideas some of the honest soul hunters have in the ability to claim as their pack of hounds as wolf exterminators. Many of them fondly cherish the opinion that each and every chase results in the death of from fifty to one hundred wolves, seemingly thinking that the club members get ravenously hungry for lupine meat, and that the hounds have appetites like threshing machines. Some of them seem to think that the hounds are little less than fiends incarnate, that they take in a wolf on the keen run, swallow him at a gulp, and keep on without a stop, taking in one million thief after another, until their capacious maws are filled. This being the case, it is no wonder that they hail the advent of the Coursing club with the wildest demonstrations of joy, believing in their innocent souls that within a very few months at the outside there will not be a wolf left in Pottawattamie county, and that their lambs, calves and poultry will flourish undisturbed.

For this reason they have encouraged the club from the inception of its organization. Up to the present time at least one hundred invitations have been received from as many farmers, requesting the club to come out to their farms for a grand chase and roundup of their four-legged enemies. In all of them the farmer offers to provide accommodations, some offering to set up a fine dinner for the entire party, and others suggesting that the club come out the evening before and stay with them all night, to secure an early start in the morning.

Of course, some of the farmers have their expectations based rather high, still, in the abstract, they are not so far out of the way. The ultimatum will be a decrease in the wolf population of the county, and it will be but a very short time until the surviving wolves in the sections through which the club has chased will be far less bold in their depredations than before. Scarcely a day goes by that some farmer does not report that a wolf walked boldly up to the door of his farm house or into his barn yard and seized a chicken or turkey right before his eyes and calmly trotted off with it. The music of a healthy pack of hounds occasionally echoing through these localities will instill a little more modesty and respect into these bold beasts. It is certain that the club has plenty of wolves in the county to furnish the club with sport for many months to come.

The Sapp Block.

Contractor Hughes seems to have met with his full share of delays and misfortune in the construction of the new Sapp block. He has experienced delays on account of the non-arrival of material, and work is now again stopped from this cause. Aside from this, the settling of the walls of the old Pacific house, caused by the excavation for the foundation of the Sapp block, caused him a vast deal of delay, inconvenience and otherwise unnecessary outlay, as the probability of a heavy bill of damages from the occupants of that property, as he gave an indemnifying bond to the owner of the new block against any claim for damages to adjoining property caused in the erection of the new building. He was further annoyed by the water in excavating for the new wall, which was on the site of the old Indian creek and near and below the present bed of the creek. The building will go up just the same, and when it is eventually completed it will be one of the finest business blocks in the city, a credit alike to Council Bluffs and the owner, and a worthy monument to the energy and perseverance of the builder.

The Shooting Parson.

Rev. Mr. Helmick, who shot and killed young Palmer at Neola, has been in the city for two days past. At the time of the tragedy his wife was away from home. He went to Red Oak Friday to meet her, but in the meantime she had gone to Neola supposing he was there. The two met here yesterday. Mr. Helmick feels greatly the position in which circumstances have placed him. While he and his friends have no doubt but that he will be fully exonerated, the killing of the young man is a tragedy, and he is deeply regretful. He is fully satisfied, yet to a man of his sensibility the shock has almost unnerved him. He regrets the affair deeply, and yet feels that he was fully justified under similar circumstances he would act the same.

The sentiment of the law and order portion of the community seems to be almost unanimous in his favor. The church of which he is pastor is anxious for him to continue to occupy the pulpit, but this he can hardly do, nor is he so advised by his brother ministers. A committee of Methodist clergymen is to be appointed by the presiding elder, and they will pass upon his case irrespective of what the courts do. The report of the committee will determine his standing and action in the church until the regular conference meets next year.

For the present Mr. and Mrs. Helmick will visit her folks in the eastern part of the state, and his folks in Minnesota. Friends in Neola have raised a purse to defray his present expenses and promise to see to it that he is re-filled when needed.

Happy Young Folks.

A very enjoyable affair was the lawn party given last Thursday afternoon by Miss Fay Biederman at her home, No. 316 Avenue F. on the occasion of her twelfth birthday. The afternoon was pleasantly passed with music, games and dancing, after which the guests repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast was served. They then returned to the lawn, where the evening was passed. The little hostess entertained charmingly, devoting herself assiduously to looking after the comfort and pleasure of her guests. She was made the recipient of many fine presents, which will be cherished as mementoes of a very happy occasion. The guests departed at 10 o'clock. Those present were: Miss Gertrude Block, Muscatine, Ia.;

Miss Rosa Herstein, Omaha, Neb.; Miss

Fannie Butler, Moberly, Mo., and Misses

Dora Gruetzer, Lou Smith, Carrie Murphy,

A Home-Made Violin.

Clinton A. Case, a young violin maker in this city, has now framed and hanging in his modest little shop a half sheet of paper which money could not buy from him. It is an autograph letter of Joseph Heine the violinist, in praise of an instrument made by Mr. Case. The artist pronounces it "equal in power, brilliancy and perfection of tone to those made by the old masters, and rivaling the celebrated instrument of Ferdinand

David, now in possession of Wilhelm." Heine has fallen in love with the new instrument that he uses in preference to his old one, which was made three hundred years ago. His old violin has an interesting history. "But it is dying now," remarked the blind violinist as his fingers tenderly toyed with his old pet. "Do you know that violins are like persons? Just like a human voice. The longer it is used, if used right, the better, but after a while though, it has to die. The old violin is dying. It is a wonderfully sweet instrument though, yet." The new one has not got its varnish dry enough to put a luster on yet. It will take six months to thoroughly dry out. Still the instrument is a little musical wonder.
